PRESENTATION

This is the Echo of Monticello. Its prime purpose is to record in picture and writing the elements and events which have composed the school year from September 1946 to June 1947, on the campus of Monticello.

This year the Echo emphasizes two related themes; first the Monticello ideals, and second the plans for improvement, growth, and development of the school.

In two ways this Echo presents a blueprint of the future. The connection between ideals and construction of buildings may seem to some rather vague. It is the belief of the Echo staff that ideals are essential to construction, and that nothing great was ever built that was not founded on the vision of better living. Monticello was born as an ideal in the mind of Benjamin Godfrey before it became a stone and mortar actuality. It has grown and expanded through the years both physically and in the development of its liberal arts curriculum.

The ideals represent a plan for the future not only for the school, but for every girl who attends Monticello. A life built upon these ideals should be one to bring personal satisfaction to the woman herself and to make her a useful and admirable member of her community.

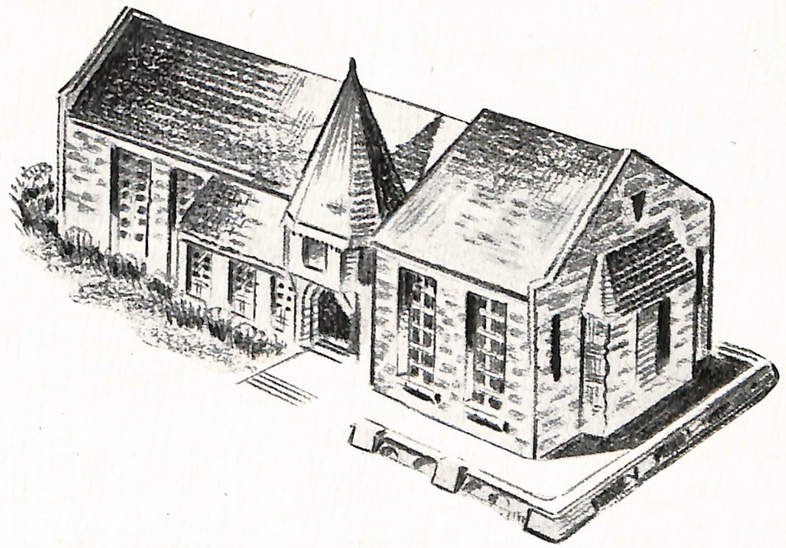
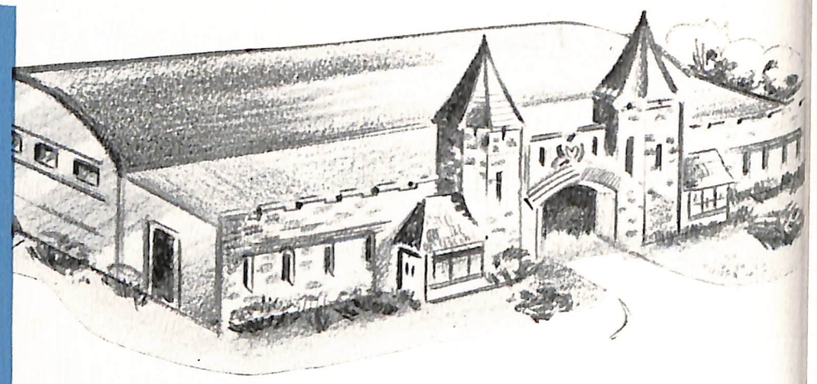
It is with these convictions that the Echo Staff of 1947 has planned and now presents to you the Echo of the year past and a blueprint of the future.





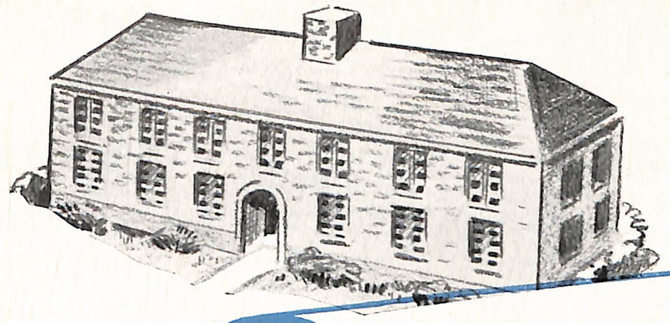
DEDICATION

This book is dedicated to the ideals of Monticello. It is dedicated to wisdom, priceless possession, after which man has thirsted and sought since the beginning of recorded time. Service is one of the invisible chords which bind man to man, the expression of love and selfishness. Friendship, and loyalty too, are necessary to society and the individual. Through the spirit of brotherhood and oneness they bring, are the problems, and burdens of life made more bearable. Therefore the Echo of 1947 is dedicated to service, friendship, and loyalty.

Democracy has been a vision of great men in every period of history, and is the ideal upon which our government is founded. Many people are now dedicating their lives to the work of creating a more democratic world: it seems particularly appropriate that this book should bear in its dedication this ideal.

Without a sense of the great dignity of life our existence would be a very mean and shallow thing. Let dignity be reflected in all we say and do.

The ultimate ideal to which the Echo is dedicated is Beauty: that ineffable quality which it would seem is worshipped alike by man and nature for, both strive unceasingly to create it. In a large sense the summation of all the ideals, it is essentially beauty, beauty of intellect, act, and spirit to which the Echo of Monticello is dedicated.



CONTENTS

BOOK ONE — WISDOM Faculty
BOOK TWO — DIGNITY Classes
BOOK THREE — SERVICE Organizations
BOOK FOUR — BEAUTY Queens
BOOK FIVE — DEMOCRACY Activities
BOOK SIX — LOYALTY Sports

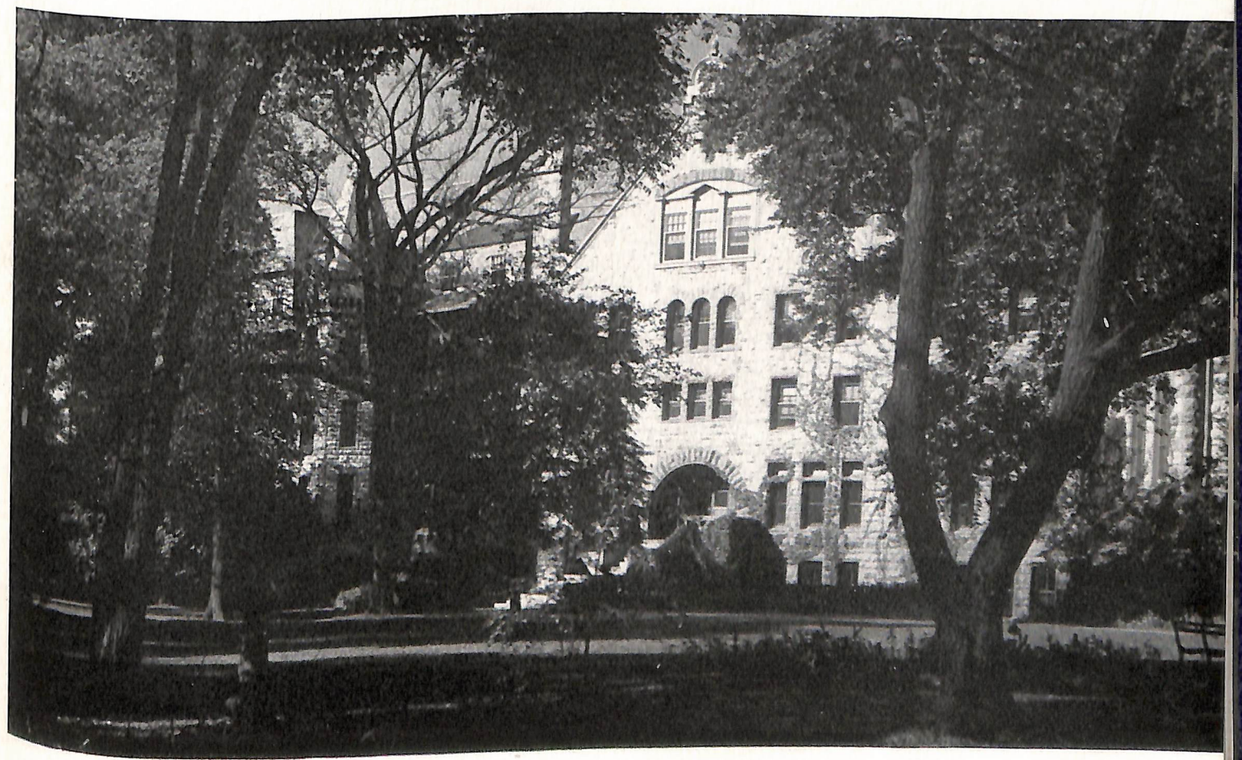
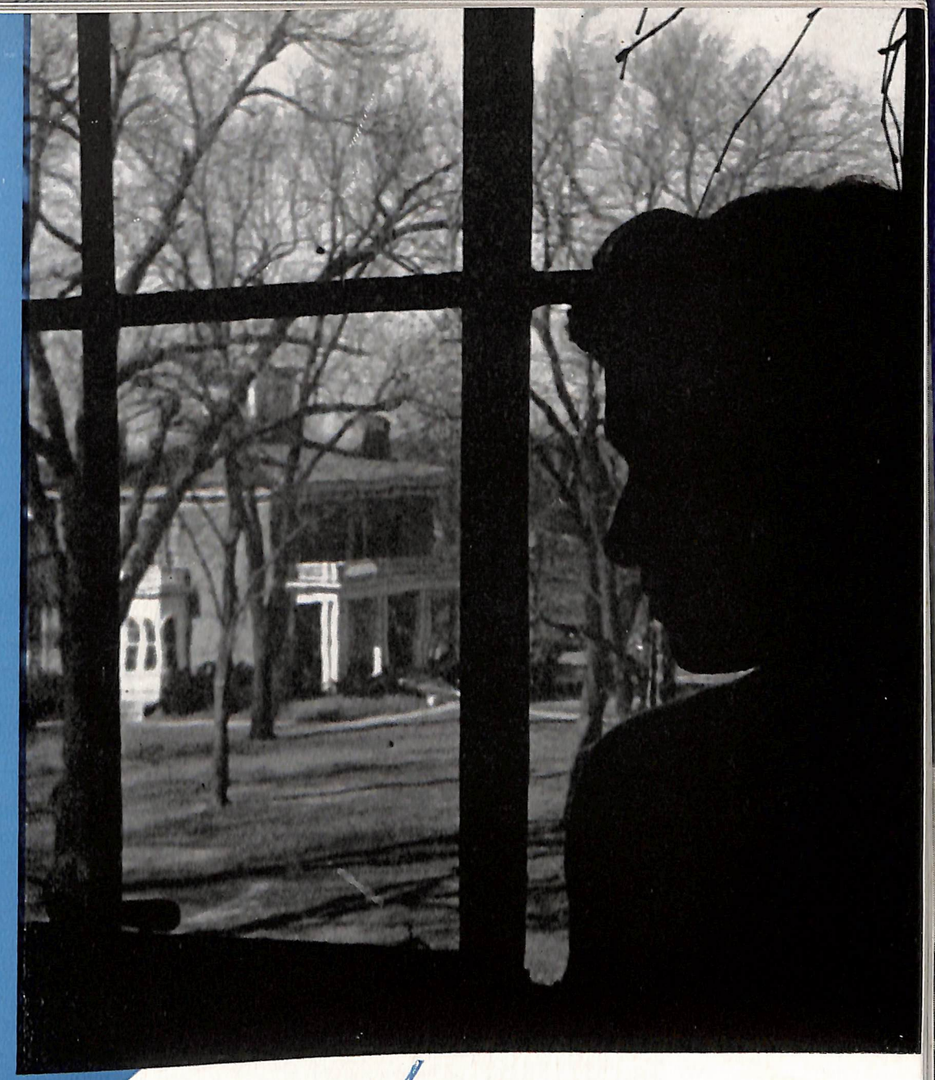
Knowledge comes, but wisdom lingers.

And these tend inward to me,
and I tend outward to them.

The past, the future, dwelling there,
like space, inseparable together.



In the faces of men and women I see God.



WISDOM

Book ONE

The President

Dr. John Ripley Young, President of Monticello College, attended Marshall College from which he received his B.A. degree. He then received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Illinois.

Upon the capable shoulders of Dr. Young rest the difficult responsibility of solving all the "insolvable" problems that arise in the administration of the college, of overseeing all educational interests, of supervising all employment.

Apart from this herculean task of directly presiding over faculty and students, he managed to find time to read the Litany at the Vesper Services, and to make his warm smile familiar at the head table in the dining room, at informal gatherings in the Evergreens, and at most of the receptions and dances. Almost as famous as his cigarette holder was his amazing ability to call students by name; he was never too preoccupied to greet them in the halls.

Board of Trustees

Fred Kuehne, Marshall Acker, Dr. John R. Young, D. Howard Doane
Mrs. S. T. Olin, Mrs. W. W. Parsons, Eben Rodgers, president, Mrs. T. S. Chapman, Mrs. G. S. Milnor

The overall responsibility for the administration of Monticello College lies with its energetic Board of Trustees, a group of nine capable men and women who generously give of their valuable time and effort in behalf of this college. Once every two months they meet on campus to discuss the policies and business matters of the college.

Eben Rodgers, recently retired president of the Alton Brick Company, serves as Chairman of the Board, while Mrs. Spencer T. Olin (Ann Whitney, '25) is Secretary.

Also directing their efforts toward the betterment of Monticello College are D. Howard Doane, Chairman of the Board of the Doane Agricultural Service of St. Louis; Marshall Acker, Director of Olin Industries, Inc. of Alton; Mrs. George Sparks Milnor (Alice Ryrie, '11) of Wilmette, Illinois, and Fred Kuehne, President of Kuehne Manufacturing Company, who serves as Chairman of the Property Committee of the Board.

Other active members are Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, widow of the late T. S. Chapman, who was a benefactor of the College and the former Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Mrs. William Wood Parsons of Terre Haute. Mrs. Parsons (Martina Erickson) is known to all the students as the former President of Monticello College from 1910-1918.

Administration

AUDLEY NOEL SULLIVAN
Assistant to the President
Director of Admissions
B.S., University of Nebraska

As Assistant to the President, Mr. Sullivan is responsible for all public relations, or any situations, acts, or publicity projects concerning Monticello College.

As Director of Admissions, he carries on all correspondence between prospective students, and is assisted by his four field representatives. Every Monti girl soon recognizes "Sully" as a friend, and goes to him for help in securing plane and train reservations.

MARY LAING SWIFT
Academic Dean
A.B., Vassar College; M.A., Columbia University

As Academic Dean, Miss Mary Laing Swift arranges the school curriculum and examination schedules. She is chairman of the Advising Committee, and thus has charge of all counselling and guidance of students, including registration and permanent faculty advisers. Under this head comes the supervision, with special attention given to transfer requirements, of the students' selections of courses.

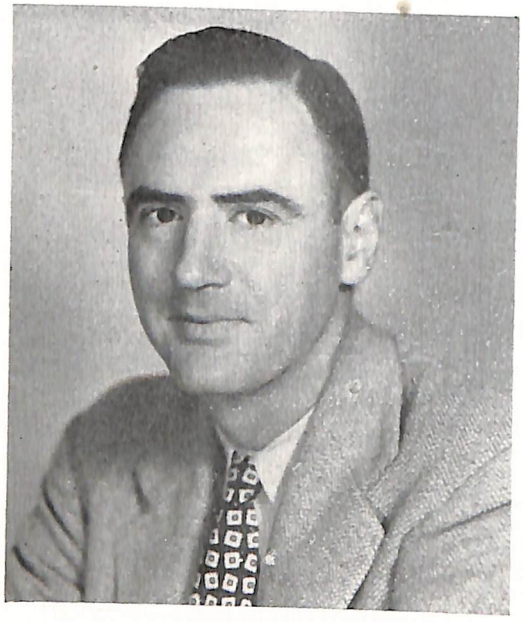
Miss Swift also serves as faculty adviser to the Student Council.

ALICE MAY MORRILL
Dean of Women
Ph.B., Denison University;
M.A., Northwestern University

Mrs. Alice May Morrill's duties as Dean of Women include the administration of social privileges, the supervision of all student residences, and the task of picking compatible roommates for new students.

Mrs. Morrill serves as faculty adviser to the newly-formed Student Residence Council, composed of all house chairmen. Perhaps most important is her role of helper and adviser to girls adjusting to the new experience of college life.

Administration



WENDEL H. BAKER

Business Manager

A.B., University of Missouri

As Business Manager of the college and Treasurer to the Board of Trustees, Wendel H. Baker takes care of all financial matters pertaining to the college, including the purchase of supplies and the operation of the student bank, at which students conveniently make deposits and withdrawals.

Mr. Baker, with the aid of the maintenance staff, also supervises the buildings and grounds, and sees that needed repairs are made.

ERMINA E. BUSCH

Registrar

A.B., University of Illinois

Miss Ermina Busch, registrar, plans and organizes the September registration and the year's schedule with Dean Swift. During the year, she records and sends out students' grades, receives high school transcripts and prepares college transcripts, checks graduation requirements, and advises students on their college plans.

Compiling numerous statistics on enrollment and classes also constitutes a part of Miss Busch's work.

FLORENCE DUREE

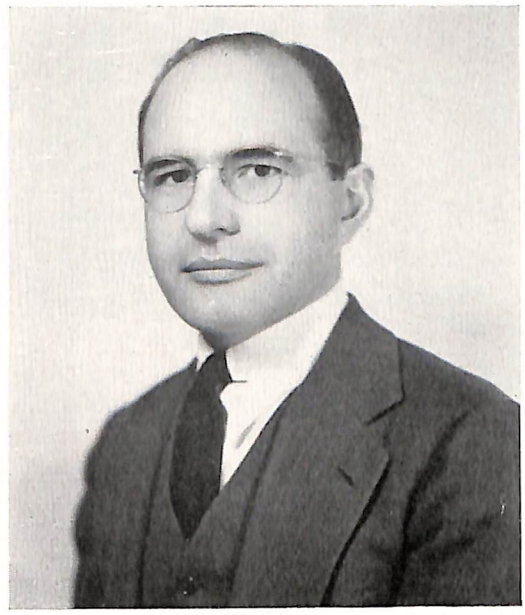
Social Director

B.A., University of Nebraska

Scheduling events on the school calendar, giving personal consultation on social problems, planning teas and receptions, and arranging trips into St. Louis for concerts, plays, and operas comprise only a portion of Mrs. Duree's work as social director.

She also is faculty adviser to the Social Committee, and thus supervises the smokehouse, the bulletin board, the dining room, and the Western lists.

Administration



JOSEPH A. L. RUSSO
Director of Publications
A.B., Harvard College

Besides editing college publications, including the catalogue, Joseph Russo supervises and assists the students in producing the school paper, the Times, and the yearbook, the Echo.

Monticello publicity usually originates with Mr. Russo. A large amount of his time is spent in taking photographs of activities and of students for use in publicity and in the student publications.

MARY J. PFEIFFENBERGER
Alumnae Secretary
A.A., Monticello College; B.A., Wellesley College

Miss Mary Pfeiffenberger has the task of keeping in touch with the 3500 living alumnae of Monticello. She arranges and attends their meetings and reunions throughout the country, and sees that each returning alumna is well cared for.

In addition, Miss Pfeiffenberger serves as editor of the Alumnae Bulletin, which is published three times yearly.

HELEN A. DOOLEY
Librarian
B.A., Illinois Wesleyan;
M.A., University of Washington;
B.S., School of Library Service,
Columbia University

As librarian and as secretary of the faculty Library Committee, Miss Helen Dooley supervises the selection, purchase, and cataloguing of new books for the library.

She assists students in locating material and books needed for their work, and keeps the list of books which are on reserve. Miss Dooley and Mrs. Maddox also have charge of the annual Book Fair.

English Department

Notley S. Maddox
Chairman, Department of English
Director, Test and Measurements
University of Illinois; B.S., M.A., Ph.D.,
Ohio State University

Every Monticello student is enrolled in an English class, where she is given the opportunity of learning how to write clearly, to read critically, and to think for herself.

Juniors are sectioned in the English composition course according to their needs as revealed by Placement Tests, and those deficient in grammar are given extra instruction. From criticism of their weekly themes and from discussion of essays, novels, poems, and plays, the students learn to write correctly, avoiding vagueness and insincerity.

The course in Biblical Literature covers both Old and New Testaments of the King James Version, which is treated not from a theological point of view, but rather as a cultural heritage of English-speaking people. "For Seniors only" is English literature, a survey course covering from earliest times to the beginning of the present century.

The American literature course, which combined with American history is popularly known as A. C. and C. (American Culture and Civilization) is generally recognized as one of the more advanced courses of the college. This year eight seniors enjoyed the lectures of Dr. Maddox and the study of Emerson, Thoreau, Hawthorne, Melville, Whitman, Mark Twain, and scores of lesser writers.

Two vocabulary tests were given this year in order to stimulate interest in increasing the vocabulary.

Psychology Department

Doctor Elvena Mattson teaches the course of Psychology, and its popularity shows how vital a fundamental understanding of "the thinking, feeling, and doing of people" is to a well-rounded education and a well-planned life.

Today the interest of students in human make-up and behavior, in personality problems and in intelligence, in emotional behavior and in motivation has greatly increased as a result of the present tangled mass of human relationships on a world-wide scale. Never before was the science which attempts "to describe, understand, predict, and control the behavior of people" so important.

Of particular interest to the classroom were Miss Mattson's vivid accounts of her personal experience in the field of psychology.

Language Department

MARGUERITE IKNAYAN
Chairman, Department of Foreign Languages
A.B., A.M., University of Chicago

Fragments of French and Spanish sentences were often heard issuing from the language lounge in Fobes or from the language tables in the dining room at noon, for the interest in foreign language is an active one at Monticello.

Two years of French courses are offered, and in Spanish two additional advanced courses are provided: Conversation and Spanish Literature. The latter course acquaints the student not only with the language, but also with the literature, the culture, and the history of Spain.

In order to help students practice their conversation and add to their understanding of the Spanish and French peoples, the language lounge is open at all times. Here are many records of native songs and book shelves lined with novels, dictionaries, and reference books. The walls are decorated with sombreros and colorful travel posters. French and Spanish magazines and newspapers are available, so that the student may find out recent developments and trends of thought in these countries as well as practice her translation.

Occasionally films of these countries are shown.

Social Science Department

HOMER F. YOUNG
Chairman, Department of Social Sciences
B.A., Ohio University; M.A., Harvard University

The social sciences deal with the relationship of man to his social and physical environment. This department is sub-divided into history, sociology, government, economics, and geography.

The history courses are designed to make the student aware of the continuity and change in human affairs and more capable of planning for the future by use of knowledge of causes and results of past acts. Most of the juniors take modern European history, while those students especially interested in Latin America or in the culture of the United States take the respective history courses.

Sociology consists of the study of human life in terms of social institutions. The study of crime and punishment, juvenile delinquency, marriage problems, and patterns of community living holds the student's interest. The courses in government and economics provide the student with information necessary to an intelligent citizen and voter.

Geography includes geomorphology, weather and climate, and general geography, which is a cultural study of the potentialities of man's environment and his use of them.

The Social Science Department also sponsors the International Relations Club.

A.B., University of Illinois; M.A., Columbia University; graduate study, University of Chicago

The Science Department is divided into three main divisions: Chemistry, Biology, and Mathematics. Third floor Fobes, with the well-equipped Biology and Chemistry laboratories at either end, is the domain of Monticello scientists.

The Biology division, supervised by Miss Gulick and Miss Challand, offers courses in Zoology, Botany, and General Biology. Students especially enjoyed the field trips back campus and the excursions to Shaw's garden and the Zoo in St. Louis.

In the Chemistry division, Miss Cressey and Miss Wilfred teach courses in general Chemistry, and in qualitative and quantitative analysis. The purpose of these courses is to provide a background for future study of Chemistry, Nutrition, Nursing, or Home Economics.

Miss Hall teaches Algebra in the Mathematics division.

STEPHEN BENNETT WILLIAMS

Musical activities and instruction at Monticello take several forms, according to the varying needs of students. For those who sing or play as an accomplishment, for those who attend concerts or collect records, for those who plan a career in which music plays a part, and for those who plan for further study of music at senior colleges or professional school, differing programs of study are available.

The Monticello Choir plays an essential part in the Sunday Vesper Services, gives two public concerts annually, and makes occasional out-of-town trips.

Bi-monthly Serenade Concerts in the Caldwell Drawing Room serve to bring performers and listeners together in a congenial atmosphere, and student recitals focus attention on the earnest and sustained effort of many gifted students.

Visual Arts Department

Richard Gates
Chairman, Department of Visual Arts
B.A., M.A., University of Iowa

The primary aims of the art department are to provide a sound personal basis for analysis, understanding, and enjoyment in the visual arts, and to establish for the professionally-interested student a sound foundation for advanced achievement in fine or applied arts.

The staff, composed of practicing artists, the large and well-equipped studios, the small classes,—all enable the students to receive a maximum of individual instruction in their personal creative efforts.

The year's program placed emphasis on practical experimentation in the techniques of drawing, painting, and sculpture, supplemented by study of historical examples of art forms.

Among the more important courses, Art History constitutes an introductory study of the art of various civilizations and their influence upon contemporary forms. The sculpture courses include modeling in clay, life studies, carving in wood and stone, ceramic sculpture, and pottery. Courses in drawing and painting embrace still life, landscape, and life studies. Other courses include basic design, dress design, interior decoration, and commercial art.

Various exhibitions in the arcade of works of art attract the attention and interest of the entire student body.

Physical Education Department

Winifred Morrison
Chairman, Department of Physical Education
B.S., Kansas City Teachers College

Every Monticello girl participates in the Physical Education program, since it is recognized that a sound body should accompany a sound mind. The ideals of companionship, fair play, and sportsmanship are emphasized as a part of good living and good playing.

The year's activities are divided into three sport seasons. A wide variety of sports are offered and the girls may select their favorite, whether it be archery, badminton, basketball, fencing, golf, hockey, swimming, life saving, riding, softball, tennis, or volleyball. This year the physical education majors have had the opportunity of taking tests for ratings as officials in basketball and volleyball.

A voluntary sports program was offered after school and from the two hundred girls that participated were chosen the various teams which represented Monticello at the numerous play days with other colleges.

Special events of the year were the Monticello Horse Show, the Marlin Club Pageant, the three Sports Banquets, and the telegraphic swimming meet in which Monticello won fourth place.

Speech and Drama Department

Solveig Winslow Sullivan
Chairman, Department of Speech and Drama
B.A., University of Wisconsin;
M.F.A., Yale University

The Drama Department of Monticello is one of the finest in the country. Under the direction of Mrs. Solveig Sullivan, students are offered classes in Acting, Directing, Play Production, Radio, Voice and Diction, and Rehearsal and Performance. W. Vladimir Rousseff serves as technical director of the department and designs the striking stage sets and costumes used in the plays.

Three major productions were given during the year. In December, Alice in Wonderland was presented; its excellent acting and deft execution brought forth enthusiastic comments from the audience, as did Liliom, given in April.

The Children's Theatre Workshop offers special advantages to the drama students, giving them the opportunity to direct plays and to work on Saturdays with the children living in the community. In the Experimental Workshop, one act plays were also directed by the students.

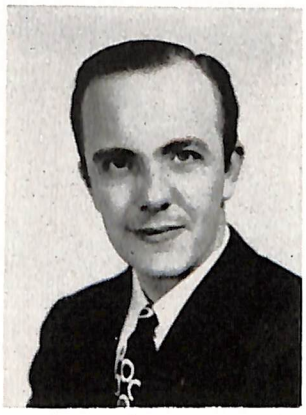
Health Department



JOHN WEDIG, M.D.
College Physician

Whether it's a case of the sniffles or a skinned knee, a cut finger or the measles, a Monti girl has the reassuring knowledge that there is always a graduate nurse on call at the infirmary. Three times a week Dr. Smith and Dr. Wedig make routine calls, and for those unfortunate patients needing hospital care, the Blue Cross Hospital Plan, to which every student belongs, helps out with the expenses.

The Monti student's first contact with the health department comes with her physical examination during the first week of school. The results are kept on file in the infirmary office.

The fourteen-bed infirmary is the only place on the campus where the girls are served breakfast in bed, and the cheery good-morning smile of Miss Gilmour serves to brighten spirits . . . but the students most appreciated the health department when the threatened flu epidemic caused a two-day suspension of classes.

Vice-President . . . . . Barbara Hoener
Secretary . . . . . Elizabeth Olsen
Treasurer . . . . . Diane Verry

Members of the preparatory class of 1947 made their first appearance on the Monticello campus in September of 1945. From that time on, although handicapped by their small number, they were recognized for their enthusiasm and participation in all activities.

The highlight of their junior year was the preparatory banquet given by them in honor of the graduating class. It was then that the president of the senior preparatory class gave the gavel to the president of the Junior preparatory class. This ceremony united the class and gave them the impetus to make this last year of the Preparatory School one of the best in the history of Monticello.

By reducing the size of the Preparatory School, the distinction between this class and the college students was lessened. But the individuality of the class remained, and by maintaining their individuality they made a definite place for themselves in the college life.

Student Council

President . . . . . Joan Reade
Vice-President . . . . . Gretchen Hutzel
Secretary . . . . . Mary Dobson

The Student Council is the governing body of the Student Association, which consists of all the students at Monticello.

Serving as a link between the administration and the student body, the Council gives official expression to the opinions and ideas of the students and offers solutions to problems pertaining to student life. It encourages the upholding of academic standards and takes minor disciplinary action against those breaking rules within its jurisdiction. This year the Council put into effect the warning system to reduce noise in the residences.

The four officers were chosen on the basis of their ability to provide sound leadership and judgment. The president and vice-president were elected by the student body in April of the preceding year, and in the latter part of October, the secretary and the treasurer were elected from the incoming Junior Class. Mary Laing Swift serves as faculty adviser to the Council.

The Student Council Board is composed of the elected heads of all major organizations, including class presidents, house chairmen, the presidents of the M.C.A. and M.A.A., the chairmen of the Sponsors and of the Social Committee, and the editors of the student publications. This group meets every Monday to discuss and to solve problems which have arisen during the week.

This year the members of the Student Council have more than fulfilled the expectations of those students who chose them for this responsible position.

Sponsors

Chairman . . . . . GLORIA MEFFLEY

Every Monti girl knows from personal experience the value of the Sponsor organization, which helps new students to meet friends and to adjust to college life. From the middle of the summer when friendly and encouraging letters from her Sponsor begin to appear in the mailbox, to the carefully-planned orientation week, each new student feels that her Sponsor is a personal friend to advise, to assist, and to reassure her.

The Sponsors were chosen by the preceding group of Sponsors on the basis of scholarship, citizenship, and personality. They arrived on campus a few days before the beginning of school to organize orientation week, which was designed to thwart any first-week homesick blues. This year the main events were the Black-and-Gold Tea, the treasure hunt, the bonfire, and the sponsor spreads.

International Relations Club

President . . . . . Sandra Meitus
Vice-President . . . . . Nancy Spence
Secretary . . . . . Floraine Skoules
Treasurer . . . . . Roberta Royse

Although the activities of the International Relations Club did not begin until January, the Club played an active part on the Monticello campus by keeping the students informed about and interested in current world events and problems.

Several panel discussions were held during the year. The first of these was on the advantages and disadvantages of World Federation. During Brotherhood Week the I.R.C. held a panel discussion on the economic, political, and ethical aspects of democracy in America. The Atomic Bomb was the topic for discussion by Messers Young, Cassill, and Gates.

In February the I.R.C. sponsored a small discussion group of students and faculty, with Louis Adamic as speaker. Dr. Hotchkiss spoke to the club about Brazil.

In support of the World Student Service Fund drive, the I.R.C. generously donated $45.00.

Homer Young is the faculty sponsor of the club.

Monticello Christian Association

President . . . . . Mary DeMar
Vice-President . . . . . Joyce Fitch
Secretary . . . . . Prudence Wellington
Treasurer . . . . . Catherine Hill

The Monticello Christian Association serves as a medium through which religion may be expressed on Monticello's campus. Every student is a member of the M.C.A. and is encouraged to take part in its discussion groups, led by authorities in the fields of social work, race prejudice, and religion, and in its projects. Leadership is provided through the Cabinet, composed of the four elected officers, the various committee heads, and Dr. Warren Griffiths, faculty adviser.

Several major projects were undertaken throughout the year. The Social Service Committee, headed by Joyce Fitch, worked with children's groups at the Alton Y.W.C.A. and at Hillcrest Settlement House. Students volunteered for six-week periods.

For the annual Doll Dinner, sponsored by the M.C.A. in December, each girl contributed a doll, often hand-made, to be distributed to children of needy families.

In March the M.C.A. promoted the World Student Service Fund drive, with Martha Dodds as chairman. The goal of $1000 was reached, and the money was used for the rehabilitation of universities and students in war-torn nations.

Religious Emphasis Week was held in January, and Dr. James Hine, of the University of Illinois, led chapel services and discussion groups and held private conferences. In February the M.C.A. and the I.R.C. sponsored Brotherhood Week, during which movies were shown.

Membership in the Monticello Players, or Drama Club, as it is commonly known, is the goal of those students who are fascinated by spotlights and scripts, and is achieved by being selected by the old members from the girls who have worked on a major drama production or have participated in the college's social program. The basis for this selection is the student's capability, enthusiasm, and capacity for work.

The Monticello Players started off the school year by entertaining the whole drama department at a coffee. During the year, by presenting a night of plays and by working in the dining room, the members generously raised money to provide a scholarship for a student of outstanding dramatic ability, recommended by Mrs. Solveig Sullivan, head of the drama department and adviser to the Club.

Other phases in the program of the Drama Club have been to assist in the publicity and sale of tickets for major drama productions and to take an active part in other phases of the college social program.

Recognized by all as a worthwhile and important organization on the campus, the Monticello Players stimulates interest in drama and provides an outlet to this interest in offering opportunities to work in the various phases of the theatre.

Science Club

President . . . . . Ann Warner
Vice-President . . . . . Jocelyn George
Secretary . . . . . Mary Jean Ralph
Treasurer . . . . . Barbara Ramsey
Publicity Manager . . . . . Joan Towle

The aim of the Science Club is to stimulate the students' interest in science and to broaden their general knowledge of physics, chemistry, and biology. This is done by means of student demonstrations, trips, and lectures by students and faculty.

All students enrolled in science classes were eligible to become associate members of the Science Club; after earning twelve points by working on committees and by giving programs, they won full membership and were initiated in an impressive ceremony in the Spring.

Members claim that their meetings, held every other Thursday were the most interesting of any school organization, as one learned how cosmetics are made or that a ping-pong ball can be supported by air; movies on scientific subjects were sometimes shown. Special events of the year were the annual Christmas dinner, at which bingo was played and the birds' Christmas tree decorated, and the picnic in April.

The main project of the year was the Science Open House in the Spring, for which each student in a science class gave a demonstration or an exhibit. Late in the Spring at a tea the officers for next year were elected.

Starting to work on the yearbook in the early Fall, the Echo staff by the end of school was ready to present to the student body a lasting record of '47 at Monticello: there on the glossy pages were carefully gathered pictures and write-ups of the faculty, students, organizations, sports, and campus.

With the helpful advice of Joseph A. Russo, faculty sponsor, staff members planned the lay-out, pasted pictures, produced write-ups, gathered ads, and kept one eye on the budget.

In April the material was sent to the printer, and the staff breathed a sigh of relief.

The Times staff is composed of capable and hard-working girls with a Journalistic slant. Under the supervision of Joseph A. Russo, they put out the Monticello Times once every two weeks. Every student, their parents, and many alumnae receive this newspaper and from it find out what Monti students are thinking and doing.

The staff members gain valuable experience in finding, writing, and editing the news and in copy-reading and make-up . . . besides, it's a lot of fun, too.

Everyone in school was familiar with the Monticello Choir, whose beautifully harmonized voices issued forth from the chapel balcony at Sunday Vesper services, and from Fobes 21, where the Choir practiced each Monday and Thursday afternoon.

The fifty-three members of the Choir were chosen by means of try-outs at which Stephen B. Williams, faculty adviser, judged the candidates on the basis of their music reading ability and the quality and tone of their voices.

The evening before Christmas vacation, the Choir presented a Carol Service in the candle-lit Chapel, and the audience joined in on the more familiar Christmas carols. The Monticello Choir assisted the Alton Community Chorus in the annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah," and in May gave a concert in Kiel auditorium, St. Louis. The junior members of the Choir sang at the Commencement exercises in June.

Vespers Committee

Shirley Akins, Mary Roberts, Mary Jane Watkins

Chairman . . . . . MARY JANE WATKINS

Closely associated with the Monticello Christian Association is the Chapel-Vespers Committee, composed of Shirley Akins, Mary Adelyn Roberts, and Mary Jane Watkins, chairman, who represented the committee on the Student Council. These girls were responsible for the seating arrangement in chapel and for the accurate recording of attendance at all services.

Each week the committee chose a group of students to serve on the door committee at Vespers. Their duty was to distribute the programs and hymnals and to receive offerings, which were used for charitable purposes in Alton and vicinity.

Chapel services, held each Tuesday and Thursday morning, were presented by students and faculty members. Conducting the Sunday Vesper services were well-known speakers from other colleges or from St. Louis and neighboring cities.

Service Council

Co-Chairmen . . . . . { Catherine Billings
Nancy Ceeley
Katherine Phelps

In charge of the charity work at Monticello, the Service Council, under the leadership of Katy Billings, Nan Ceeley, and Katy Phelps, conducted many successful drives and campaigns during the year.

The Council received the full cooperation of the school during the Community Chest drive in the Fall; liberal donations from students and faculty brought Monticello much praise.

In January, this energetic trio conducted the March of Dimes campaign. Goals were set for each class and for the faculty, and there was much good-natured competition and rivalry as the dimes extended farther and farther along the front hall of Caldwell.

Nancy Coe presided at the meetings, served as the Student Council representative, and had charge of the dining room, securing table hostesses, and enforcing dress regulations. Diane Durham supervised all teas and receptions. Shirley Morris took care of the Smokehouse and planned the popular dances.

By second semester, the membership numbered around seventy, as outstanding Juniors were selected.

Special events sponsored by the Social Committee were enthusiastically welcomed: the boat trip down the Mississippi in November, the college style show in April, the all-school carnival in May, and the crowning of the Commencement Queen in June.

The Seven Ideals

These girls representing the seven ideals were chosen by a small group composed of members of the faculty and student body. The task was an extremely difficult one as there were many girls worthy of being selected as representative of the Monticello ideals.

When the seven girls were chosen, the task of deciding which girl was particularly representative of an individual ideal, was found to be equally difficult, for it was discovered that of the group chosen every girl could represent any or all of the ideals.

Therefore each girl may be considered as personifying the seven ideals although she is honored as being especially representative of one.

The M.A.A. Board is the governing body of the Monticello Athletic Association, of which every student is a member.

The Board was composed of the four elected officers and the student sport managers. The managers were: Marjory Lawyer, archery; Nancy Ceeley, badminton; Libby Wham, basketball; Katherine Billings, golf; Barbara Fry, hockey; Marjory Gutfreund, riding; Katherine Tyner, softball; Nancy Neal, swimming; Adele Wilfred, tennis; Barbara Hoener, volleyball; Shirley Marvin, bicycles; Elaine Qualman, recreation.

An active voluntary sports program was provided the year round, which gave each girl a chance to participate in a sport of her choice, to improve her skill, and to develop team work. The girls who participated in the after-school sports made up the varsity and class teams and were honored at the three sports banquets given at the end of each of the sport seasons.

Several play days with other near by colleges were sponsored. Competitions were held with Maryville, MacMurray, Lindenwood, Principia, and Washington University.

Manager . . . . . LIBBY WHAM

The most popular winter sport at Monticello is basketball. From the many students who came out for voluntary basketball were chosen the varsity squad, with Libby Wham as captain, and the class teams, with Barbara Acker as Senior captain, Peg Hallauer as Junior captain, and Libby Wham as Prep captain.

The varsity played games with Washington University, Illinois Normal, Principia and Mac-Murray Colleges. Games between the class teams produced a spirited rivalry, but the most popular contests were the faculty vs. seniors game, in which Dr. Griffiths was the star, and the uproarious alumnae vs. seniors game in February.

Volleyball

Zoellner, Newton, Blomgren, Savage, Garrett, Dobson, Spiro
McGill, Carveth, Hoener, Armentrout, Lawyer

During the winter sports season this year 70 girls enrolled in volleyball. The classes were held in the entertainment hall, as were the voluntary and varsity games. Again in April, enrollment was held for spring classes and 115 girls signed up. These classes were held out-of-doors on back campus when weather permitted.

This has been a very popular sport at Monticello. Besides providing exercise, it is a team sport in which co-operation is the main feature.

At the end of each season there were inter-class tournaments in which every girl participated and the season was climaxed at the end of the year by a Faculty vs. Student game.

During the winter season there were five classes devoted mainly to acquiring skill in passing and serving. For those with previous experience, further development of skills was stressed, while the beginners were taught the fundamental skills.

Softball

Manager. . . KATHERINE TYNER

During the spring sports season the softball diamond on North campus is a very popular spot. Not only are there the four scheduled classes, but also the voluntary and varsity games.

As in all team sports, cooperation and carrying out of instructions are stressed. In class, rules and beginning skills, particularly pitching and batting are stressed, and after school those girls who hope to make the varsity team or wish to play for their own enjoyment go out.

At the beginning of each school year, one of the high spots of the athletic schedule is the playing of the inter-class, and faculty vs. student games. This year Baldwin House emerged the victor of the inter-house competition only to be defeated by the mighty faculty. Also, to end the season at the close the school year, inter-class tournaments are held between the individual classes.

The members of Marlin Club are the mermaids of Monticello. These thirty-three expert swimmers were chosen by means of try-outs in the fall and spring.

The main project of the club is to present the annual swimming pageant, which involves weeks, or rather months of hard work; selecting the theme, planning the numbers, making costumes and decorations, and most of all—practising! This year the "Marlin Fantasy" followed the theme of dreams.

Hockey

Manager. . . . . BARBARA FRY

In the fall months the most popular team sport at Monti is hockey, under the direction of Miss "Scotty" Morrison. Many girls play hockey after school as a voluntary sport, and from them are chosen the most outstanding players to compete with other schools. Inter-class games never fail to rouse the classes to support their respective teams, headed by Barbara Fry, Jocelyn George, and Libby Wham.

Varsity: Marvin, McPhee, Hutzel, Ingwersen, McDonald, George, Garrett, Wilder, Hallauer. B. Alexander, Ernst, Wham, Oakes, Qualman, Curtis, Gill, McCormack, Griswold. Meffley, Harper, Dailey, Fry, Shaw, M. Alexander, Tyner.

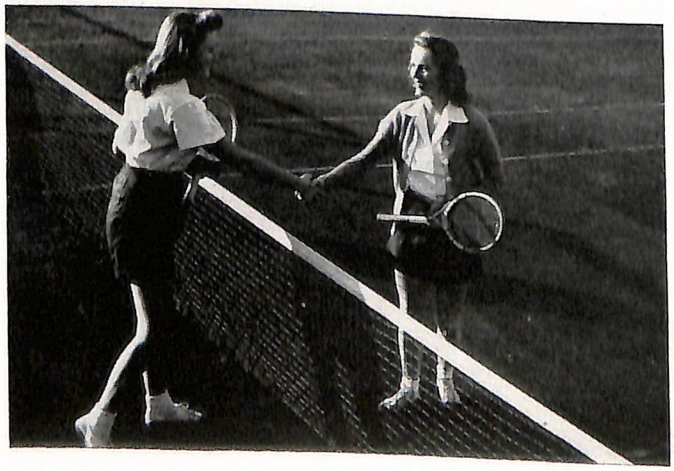
Fisher, Naft, Woodbury, Wham, Wilfred, Housel, Brandt.

President . . . . . Libby Wham
Secretary . . . . . Adele Wilfred

Twice a year tryouts are held for those girls interested in becoming members of the Tennis Club. This year there were seventeen girls in the club, each selected for her excellent game of tennis.

Meetings were held every two weeks during the fall and winter, and in bad weather the members practiced skills in the entertainment hall. A movie on tennis strokes was shown. When spring arrived the meetings were held every week, and intense practice prepared the players for stiff competition in play-days with other colleges. There was also spirited competition within the club.



Miss Maxine Miller, adviser to the club, coaches the players.

Tennis is also taught in the classes and has proven to be quite popular. Adele Wilfred is the student tennis manager.

Fencing

Monticello is one of the few schools in the country to offer the ancient art of fencing as a sport. Under the supervision of Miss Maxine Miller, all defensive and offensive techniques, combat fencing, and official tournament ettiquette and regulations are learned by the enthusiastic fencers.

The vocabulary to be mastered is immense, but within a few weeks the fencers are at home with such terms as "en guarde, parry carte, lunge, feint, stop touch, and ballestra."

Inter-class tournaments were held after school, and climaxing the season was an all-school tournament in which the title of best fencer went to Ruth Wiles. Representatives of Monticello were outstanding at the St. Louis tournament.

An event attracting many non-fencers was the demonstration by nationally-known fencers.
